

Declaration of Relationships with Industry and Potential Conflicts of Interest and our Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Principles

It is my duty to remind you of the College's Conflicts of Interest Policy and Principles for Relationships with Industry. You have an ongoing duty to review these policies and disclose your relationships with industry and any other potential conflicts of interest to the Chair of this committee and on the College's online disclosure platform.

A conflict of interest may arise when any personal, institutional, organizational, or financial interest presents a risk of undue influence. If a conflict has been previously disclosed or arises during this meeting, please make the Chair aware and abstain from voting on the matter during this meeting. This also serves as a reminder that you have a duty of confidentiality to the College which requires you to maintain the confidentiality of all non-public information that is discussed at this meeting.

The American College of Cardiology Diversity and Inclusion Principles are intended to guide the actions of ACC as an organization to better fulfill our Mission to transform cardiovascular care and improve heart health. This will be achieved by embracing individual and cultural diversity among both our members and the patients we serve. Whenever possible, we will improve the culture of our organization and profession by being more welcoming and inclusive, ensuring access to and opportunity for collaboration and leadership for all of our members and by advancing health equity.
