Paragraph 49

Motion for a resolution

49. Considers that Parliament should play an active role in the political debate on competition policy, including through organising a public hearing with the CEOs of GAF A (Google, Amazon, Facebook, Apple) on their corporate strategies in the field of competition and taxation practices;

Amendment

49. Considers that Parliament should play an active role in the political debate on competition policy, including through organising a public hearing with the CEOs of GAF A (Google, Amazon, Facebook, Apple) on their corporate strategies in the field of competition and taxation practices; regrets that all four CEOs have declined invitations to such a hearing; regrets furthermore that Parliament does not have proper mechanisms in place to legally mandate such appearances and hopes that this may be resolved soon;
