9. Calls on all Parties to agree on a post-2025 new collective quantified goal on climate finance at COP29 with safeguards to reach the agreed quantum and timeframe;

Amendment

9. Reminds that many developing countries' NDCs are conditional on international climate finance; highlights, therefore, that agreeing on an ambitious post-2025 new collective quantified goal on climate finance (NCQG) at COP29 is essential for putting the world on track to achieve the 1.5C temperature goal, with the submission of updated NDCs in advance of COP30, in line with the agreed process and timeline; calls on all Parties to agree on the NCQG at COP29 with safeguards to reach the agreed quantum by the agreed deadlines; notes with concern that it is estimated that global climate finance needs to increase at least five-fold annually, up to USD 9 trillion a year by 2030^{1a}, and that costed needs in developing countries are estimated at USD 5.8–5.9 trillion for NDCs for the pre-2030 period^{1b}; calls, therefore, on the Union and its Member States to steer an agreement on an NCQG that includes at least a goal of 1 trillion USD/year from grants or grant-equivalent instruments from public authorities of developed countries to developing countries; calls on the Union and its Member States to steer an agreement on stand-alone sub-targets for mitigation, adaptation and loss and damage, so as to ensure a more even spread of international climate finance across these pillars;

10. Notes that many climate-vulnerable countries are in debt distress or at significant risk of debt distress;

10. Notes that many climate-vulnerable countries are in debt distress or at significant risk of debt distress; calls on other countries and multilateral development banks, including the EIB, to adopt climate resilience debt clauses in future lending; looks forward to the conclusions of the global expert review on debt, nature and climate as proposed by France, Colombia and Kenya during the Paris Summit for a New Global Financing Pact; considers it necessary to have solutions that jointly tackle the climate and debt crises; reiterates the need to clearly prioritise grants-based climate finance to ensure that climate finance does not contribute to unsustainable debt levels in developing countries and calls on the Parties to engage in discussions and undertake the necessary measures to alleviate the debt burden of developing countries; stresses that many developing countries are in great fiscal need and require investments in order to transition their energy systems and undertake effective climate mitigation and adaptation efforts; highlights the importance of increasing grants-based finance, especially for adaptation, and that climate finance provided in the form of loans can exacerbate developing countries' debt distress; notes that 50 % of the EU's total climate finance in 2020 was provided in the form of grants and urges the EU and all Member States to increase grants-based finance, particularly for adaptation and especially for least developed countries and SIDs;
