ECR:
§ 45
First part Text as a whole without the words: 'and the LGBTQI+ community,'
Second part those words

The Left:

§ 61
First part 'Stresses that the smooth and efficient implementation of the Union's migration and asylum policy by Member States is key to ensuring the security of the Union and preserving the free movement of people within the Union;'
Second part 'insists that the Union's migration and asylum policy should be governed by the principle of solidarity and fair sharing of responsibility, including its financial implications, between the Member States as enshrined in Article 80 of the TEU, and in respect for fundamental rights, in line with Union values and international commitments;'

PPE:

Amendment 21
First part Text as a whole without the words: 'Condemns', 'which', 'inexplicable and devastating', 'highlights in that regard, that the use and accountability of Union funds has been transparent for decades at Hungarian universities;' and 'calls on the Commission to immediately withdraw its discriminative decision;'
Second part those words

Amendment 22

First part Text as a whole without the words: 'Highlights that the Hungarian government conducted a series of negotiations with the Commission in order for Hungary to be able to access the cohesion funds it is rightfully entitled to; notes that, as a result of that dialogue, Hungary undertook to fulfil a package of measures; condemns the fact that the Commission is imposing more and more conditions to transfer development funds to Hungary;', 'and that the Commission disburse the financial resources immediately' and 'and to stop the politically selected ideological blackmailing of Member States.'
Second part those words

Amendment 23

First part Text as a whole without the words: 'Condemns the fact that in December 2022 the Commission decided to exclude Hungarian universities, students, teachers and researchers from mobility programmes;' and 'regrets that the realisation of that goal is obviously opposed by Union decisions that exclude the vast majority of students from a Member State from mobility; calls on the Commission to immediately withdraw its discriminative decision;'
Second part those words

Amendment 31

First part Text as a whole without the words: 'regrets that' and 'the European Court of Justice imposed a fine on it for not letting migrants enter Hungary before a final decision is made on their application; requests that the Commission use part of the EUR 2 billion due for border protection for Hungary to finance the fine imposed on Hungary by the European Court of Justice.'
Second part those words

§ 90, point f

First part	Text as a whole without the words: 'including outreach in the languages of linguistic minorities and communities, where appropriate;'
Second part	those words
PfE:
§ 5
First part	Text as a whole without the words: 'the implementation of the new Asylum and Migration Pact;'
Second part	those words
§ 35
First part	Text as a whole without the words: 'and all Member States' and 'in parallel to the implementation of the Recovery and Resilience Facility;'
Second part	those words
§ 36
First part	Text as a whole without the words: 'and calls on Member States to prevent delays caused by a lack of administrative capacity at all levels of governance;'
Second part	those words
§ 41
First part	'Is alarmed by the ever-growing impact of natural disasters; underlines that these disasters are often linked to the worsening climate change and are therefore likely to occur with greater frequency and intensity in the future; is, therefore, highly concerned about the Union's ability to respond effectively and in a timely and effective manner; wishes to protect human lives and secure livelihoods; stresses the need to invest in climate mitigation and adaptation measures, in particular in vulnerable regions; stresses, in this context, the urgent need to boost the Union's response capacity; increases, therefore, appropriations for the Union Civil Protection Mechanism by EUR 42 million above DB; calls for a prioritisation of investments that help reduce the impact of natural disasters as well as in the investments in the preventive measures, preparedness and resilience;'

Amendment 20

First part	'Member States should foster equal opportunities for all by addressing inequalities in education and training systems, including in terms of regional coverage. In particular, children should be provided with access to affordable and high-quality early childhood education and care, in line with the new "Barcelona targets" and the European Child Guarantee Member States should raise overall qualification levels, reduce the number of early leavers from education and training, support equal access to education of children from disadvantaged groups and remote areas, increase the attractiveness of vocational education and training (VET), support access to and completion of tertiary education, and increase the number of science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) graduates both in VET and in tertiary education, especially women. Top performance and excellence in educational outcomes should also be supported, given their role in fostering the future innovation potential of the EU. Member States should facilitate the transition from education to employment for young people through quality, paid traineeships and apprenticeships, as well as increase adult participation in continuing learning, particularly among learners from disadvantaged backgrounds and the least qualified. Taking into account the new requirements of digital, green and ageing societies, Member States should upgrade and increase the supply and uptake of flexible initial and continuing VET, strengthen work-based learning in their VET systems, including through accessible, quality and effective apprenticeships, and support low-skilled adults maintain their employability. Furthermore, Member States should enhance, where appropriate, the labour-market relevance of tertiary education and research; improve skills monitoring and forecasting; make skills and qualifications more visible and comparable, including those acquired abroad, and ensure a more consistent use of EU-wide classifications (i.e. ESCO); and increase opportunities for recognising and validating skills and competences acquired outside formal education and training, including for refugees and persons under a temporary protection status. Beyond using the untapped potential of the EU domestic workforce, opening legal pathways for migration and preventing exploitative working conditions by ensuring equal treatment between local workers and third country nationals can also contribute to addressing skills and labour shortages, including those linked to the green and digital transitions such as in STEM sectors as well as in healthcare and long-term care, education, transport and construction. Member States should likewise ensure that labour migration does not result in a deterioration of existing working conditions for domestic workers.' without the words 'Beyond using the untapped potential of the EU domestic workforce, opening legal pathways for migration and preventing exploitative working conditions by ensuring equal treatment between local workers and third country nationals can also contribute to addressing skills and labour shortages, including those linked to the green and digital transitions such as in STEM sectors as well as in healthcare and long-term care, education, transport and construction.'
