Georgetown is a lot of things to a lot of people. Cobblestone streets and cupcake tours. Waterfront picnics and political watering holes. Canal history and charming boutiques. Founded in 1751, 40 years before the nation's capital, DC's original neighborhood has a storied history—but half the fun is writing your own. Today this National Historic District is where the past meets the present, with more than 470 shops, restaurants and institutions set against the backdrop of Georgetown's unique architecture and quaint streets. Start exploring!

About the BID

About the Georgetown Business Improvement District

The Georgetown BID is a nonprofit organization dedicated to protecting and enhancing the accessibility, attractiveness and overall appeal of Georgetown. Established in 1999 by its property owners and merchants, the Georgetown BID now has more than 1,000 members as it celebrates its 20th anniversary. The organization is located in the heart of Georgetown in Washington, DC, and sets a standard of excellence in preserving historic charm while meeting contemporary needs.

Both on the street and behind the scenes, the Georgetown BID is involved in every aspect of the Georgetown experience within the commercial district. As urban placemakers, the organization strengthens, activates and reimagines the community through public space enhancements, economic development, transportation, marketing, and events programming. Georgetown Today

Georgetown's roots run deep, but the neighborhood has branched out. Today DC's oldest neighborhood has a bustling and vibrant business district, an active residential community, and one of the region's most sought-after recreational waterfronts. It's DC's playground for shopping, dining, history, fitness and family fun.

M Street / Wisconsin Avenue

M Street is recognized as one of the best shopping streets in the country. It frequently serves as the starting point for many visitors, connecting the neighborhood to Foggy Bottom and Downtown DC to the east and Virginia via Key Bridge to the west. The intersection of M Street and Wisconsin Avenue is the heart of Georgetown, with boutique-lined streets extending in all four directions. Head up Wisconsin Avenue for some of the city's most unique boutiques and small businesses, or south of M Street to the Georgetown Waterfront.

Book Hill

Independent boutiques, antiques, art galleries, and cafés and restaurants make up the charming area known as Book Hill, located along Wisconsin Avenue from O Street to Reservoir Road. From Book Hill Park you can take in a panoramic view of Georgetown, the Potomac River, and Virginia beyond.

Canal & Waterfront District

South of M Street are two bodies of water, the C&O Canal and the Potomac River. Between those bodies of water are nooks and crannies to explore. Along side streets including Grace Street and Thomas Jefferson, you'll find some of the best bakeries, coffee and tacos in town, as well as recreational opportunities, architectural gems, and remnants of the neighborhood's industrial history. Don't miss Georgetown Waterfront Park for views of the river, and Washington Harbour for 10 restaurants and eateries—plus the area's largest outdoor ice skating rink in the winter.

Georgetown Design District

Georgetown is home to 30+ design showrooms and stores. Cady's Alley anchors the Georgetown Design District, with more than 20 home furnishing showrooms, fashion and specialty boutiques nestled together. Enter at 3300 M Street, or access the area's cobblestone walkway from M and 33rd or 34th Street. Enjoy a coffee and treat at Leopold's Kafe or District Doughnut.

Georgetown History

Before there was Washington, there was Georgetown

Once a tobacco port town of Maryland, Georgetown predates the nation's capital by 40 years. You can discover that history at sites such as the Old Stone House, one of the oldest known remaining structures in Washington, DC, built in 1765. Now a National Park, the Old Stone House commemorates the daily lives of Georgetown's early residents.

History On Every Corner

History beckons at every turn in Georgetown. The C&O Canal is a National Historical Park with miles of hiking and biking trails. Along the Canal and south toward the Potomac River you'll see artifacts of Georgetown's early industrial history. Georgetown Heritage and the National Park Service are in the midst of leading a multi-year Canal restoration, which will include a new historic Canal replica boat and the revitalization of the park. Visit georgetownheritage.org for more.

Further north in Georgetown's residential area are the historic house museums Dumbarton House and Tudor Place, which tell the stories of Georgetown's prominent early residents. And all along M Street and Wisconsin Avenue, shops, restaurants, and offices bring modern life into the neighborhood's historic rowhomes. The City Tavern Club on M Street, now a private social club, once hosted guests including Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, and John Adams.

Take a Tour

Georgetown's history is part of what makes it so special; discover more during a visit to the Peabody Room, or on a walking tour of the neighborhood. Follow The African American Heritage Trail to see the churches and residences that were at the heart of Georgetown's African American community in the 19th and 20th centuries. Or trace the path of those most iconic Georgetown residents, the Kennedys. In addition to guided tours of Georgetown estates and gardens, scenic tours are available daily.

Dumbarton House

2715 Q Street, NW
dumbartonhouse.org | 202-337-2288

An AAM-accredited historic house museum and the national headquarters of The National Society of The Colonial Dames of America, Dumbarton House is a Federal period estate and museum collection that offers a unique view of what life was like for early Washingtonians.

Open Tues-Sun, 10-3pm (last entry 2:45pm)

Boating in DC

2900 Virginia Avenue, NW
boatingindc.com | 202-337-9642

Thompson Boat Center and Key Bridge Boathouse are the gateways to the Potomac for both experienced and first-time rowers and paddlers. Not only do they offer scenic views from the Potomac River, but host a number of tours and classes. Kayaks, paddleboards, and canoes are among the many different types of rentals available.

Tudor Place Historic House & Garden

1644 31st Street, NW
tudorplace.org | 202-965-0400

America's story lives here! Celebrating its 2016 Bicentennial, beautifully preserved neoclassical estate offers guided house tours and leisurely garden visits. Martha Washington's granddaughter and five following generations lived here, from the agricultural to the digital age, leaving stories, architecture, art, household items and a landscape for you to explore.

Getting Here

Ride the Circulator

The red DC Circulator bus links cultural, entertainment, and business destinations within the city, and two lines come to Georgetown. The Dupont-Rosslyn line makes stops along M Street and crosses Key Bridge. The Union Station-Georgetown line makes stops on K Street (westbound), Wisconsin Avenue, and M Street (eastbound).

Metrobus

A number of Metrobus lines service the Georgetown area. The 30s connect Georgetown with Downtown DC, the National Mall, and Capitol Hill going eastbound, and Glover Park, Tenleytown, and Friendship Heights westbound. The D buses travel to Glover Park, the Palisades, and Downtown DC. The G2 connects Georgetown University with LeDroit Park/Shaw via Dupont Circle. For routes and trip planning information, visit the Washington Metro Area Transit Authority (WMATA) website at www.wmata.com.

Parking

With 20 lots and garages in Georgetown, parking is readily available throughout the neighborhood. Parking lots are noted on the map on page 18.

Capital Bikeshare & Bike Services

Capital Bikeshare is the DC area's user-friendly bicycle transit service. With more than 350 stations, including eight in Georgetown, it's a great option for exploring the area on two wheels. Take a single 30-minute ride for only $2 or sign up for a membership (starting at $8 for 24 hours); each ride is free for the first 30 minutes. For more about the program visit www.capitalbikeshare.com.

Have your own bike? Park it at one of nearly 50 public bike racks located throughout the commercial district. A bike fixit repair station is also available for a quick tune-up. Visit www.georgetowndc.com for more, including a bike parking map.

Take the Metro

The Foggy Bottom-GWU Metro stop is a short 15-minute walk to/from Georgetown. Take the blue/orange/silver line to the Foggy Bottom-GWU station and walk five blocks along Washington Circle and Pennsylvania Avenue to reach M Street in Georgetown, or take K Street to access the Washington Harbour and Georgetown Waterfront. The Rosslyn, VA, Metro stop is also a 15-minute walk over the Key Bridge to M Street and Georgetown University.

Fashion

Georgetown's street style is as diverse as its independent boutiques, international brands and pop-ups. Shoppers of all ages and tastes can play dress up (and take home) at over 150 fashion specialty stores, with sneaker heads and politicians alike flocking to Georgetown for a range of preppy, cutting-edge, casual and elegant clothes and accessories. For all things fashion, forward to Georgetown.

Specialty Shops

It's easy to spend a whole weekend wandering through Georgetown, exploring all the stores and sites. From luggage to stationery, unique gifts, bikes and records, there are many specialty stores offering one-stop shopping for everything you need—and didn't know you needed until now.

Design / Art / Home Decor

Georgetown is DC's Design District, offering an extraordinary collection of over 40 interior design and home furnishings stores and art galleries carrying everything from modern to traditional furniture, antiques, accessories, and art to ensure that your home is as well dressed as you are. Whether you're an interior designer or simply have an interior of your own, it's all for design, and design for all.

Cady's Alley (3314 M Street, NW), the heart of Georgetown's Design District, offers a distinctive shopping experience. Over 20 home furnishings showrooms and high-end fashion retailers are set in a unique cluster of historic industrial buildings that exude a unique European charm.

vineyard vines

1225 Wisconsin Avenue, NW

vineyardvines.com | 202-625-8463

In 1998, brothers Shep and Ian Murray quit their corporate jobs in New York to start selling ties on Martha's Vineyard. Twenty-one years later, and we're still making quality products that help our customers live their Good Life.

Every day should feel this good!

Tuckernuck

1053 Wisconsin Avenue, NW

www.tnuck.com | 202-856-7260

Tuckernuck is a boutique that puts a fresh spin on classic American style. Tuckernuck features hand-picked products from both established and up-and-coming brands to celebrate and update the traditional look. Tuckernuck opened their first brick-and-mortar location in Georgetown in October 2016.

Sterling & Burke

2824 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW (M & 29th Streets)

sterlingandburke.com | 202-333-2266

Georgetown's specialist destination for elegant menswear, leather goods, grooming, jewelry & accessories. Brands include Budd, Tusting, Globe-trotter, Halcyon Days, Dunhill & Santa Maria Novella. A trunk show hub for Europe's finest craftsmen - tailors, shirtmakers and shoemakers from London's Savile Row and Italy. Custom shirt, stationery and personalization services also available.

Christ Child Society Opportunity Shop

1427 Wisconsin Avenue, NW

(corner of Wisconsin Avenue & P Street)

christchilddc.org | 202-333-6635

Where good deals become good deeds. Offering an ever changing selection of designer accessories, jewelry, china, gift items and jewelry. All proceeds go to programs serving the material, emotional, and educational needs of at risk children in the DC area.

Arts, Culture & Entertainment

From taking a selfie at one of the most infamous staircases in movie history, to retracing Jackie O's footsteps or enjoying a performance at one of the country's oldest jazz clubs, visitors have no shortage of cultural experiences to choose from.

Nightlife

Home to the internationally recognized Blues Alley—the oldest, continuously operated jazz supper club in America—and Saturday jazz crooners at The Alex Speakeasy, Georgetown also caters to music lovers of every persuasion, with noteworthy Georgetown Piano Bar and nightly folk, rock and jam bands at the friendly Gypsy Sally's.

If you're looking for a post-dinner drink, sip classic cocktails at Bar à Vin and in the "Proposal Booth" at Martin's Tavern (where JFK proposed to Jackie), or sample the beer selection at Pizzeria Paradiso's late-night Game Room and The Sovereign. For people-watching, head to Café Milano, Bourbon Steak or Fiola Mare, or The Graham and Rosewood Hotel for rooftop relaxation.

Film

It's Hollywood on the Potomac in Georgetown, a popular filming location for movies including The Exorcist, Wonder Woman 1984, St. Elmo's Fire, Wedding Crashers, and Minority Report. Film buffs needn't leave Georgetown disappointed if there's no camera in sight; take a self-guided film sites tour, or catch the newest releases at the AMC Loews Georgetown. Just keep your eyes peeled: Georgetown is a frequent hang-out for celebrities visiting DC.

Galleries

Art is in the eye of the beholder, and there's plenty to behold in Georgetown. Whether you're looking for an avant-garde abstract painting or a classic landscape, the neighborhood galleries offer a wide range of styles. A cluster of galleries can be found in Book Hill, as well as sprinkled throughout Georgetown. Visit www.georgetowngalleries.com for more.

Live Music

One of the regular dueling piano performers at Georgetown Piano Bar, Jay Angoff is always game to play the classic requests for his Saturday night crowd.

Playtime in Georgetown also means 'me time' with a well-deserved visit to one of over 50 plush salons and spas. Get the head-to-toe treatment, from massages to facials and lash bars, for a day of pampering that will leave you feeling refreshed and re-energized for even more exploring. Or, bring the salon experience home with a shopping spree through one of the neighborhood's numerous beauty stores that sell international brands and made-in-DC products alike.

Stay a While

If you want to experience the real Georgetown, you have to make a night of it. Quaint inns and luxury hotels—including one of the top 15 hotels in the country—offer luxurious accommodations for visitors looking for an urban oasis in the heart of our nation's capital.

Neighborhood Events

There is always something happening in Georgetown and many times, it's free! The BID's signature annual events—including Georgetown GLOW, Georgetown French Market, Taste of Georgetown, Sunset Fitness, and Sunset Cinema—offer a fun and unique way to experience the very best in local food, fashion, arts, entertainment and recreation. Throughout the year, Georgetown businesses also hold their own free events, including trunk shows, gallery openings, and pop-up shops.

Check out the events calendar on georgetowndc.com for further details.

Georgetown French Market

Calling all Mesdames et Messieurs! Every April, the ever-popular Georgetown French Market brings over 7,500 attendees to the charming Book Hill neighborhood of Georgetown as it's transformed into a Parisian-inspired open-air market. More than 35 locally-owned boutiques, cafes, salons and galleries set up tables along Wisconsin Avenue from O Street to Reservoir Road with clothing, jewelry, art, home furnishings and more, up to 75% off. Live music, French fare, face painting, whimsical street performers and more round out this popular annual event.

For more details, visit www.georgetownfrenchmarketdc.com

Sunset on the Waterfront

Georgetown Waterfront Park beckons on a summer night, just as the sun's going down, with a view of the Kennedy Center to the left and Key Bridge to the right. Few places are more Instagram-worthy, or more perfectly suited for a community event. Georgetown Sunset Fitness in the Park is a free series of outdoor fitness classes, running June-August. Looking for less exercising and more relaxing? Grab a picnic and a blanket and head to Georgetown Sunset Cinema, a free movie series in July and August.

Taste of Georgetown

Eat, drink and play at the Taste of Georgetown, an annual celebration of food, wine, and music that has been one of Washington, DC's premier neighborhood events for more than 20 years. There's only one opportunity each year to taste your way through Georgetown in a single afternoon, with more than 60 signature dishes from over 30 of Georgetown's restaurants, in addition to wine and craft beer pairings, music and family-friendly activities.

For more details, visit www.tasteofgeorgetown.com

Holiday Happenings & Georgetown GLOW

Magical is the only way to describe Georgetown during the holiday season. Festive roof lighting lines the streets, wreaths adorn every lamp post, Santa comes to town in Book Hill, and small businesses compete in a neighborhood window decorating contest.

Throughout December and early January, visitors can also experience the sparkle of the season at Georgetown GLOW, the region's only curated exhibition of outdoor public light art installations. Set against the historic backdrop of DC's oldest neighborhood, it's a whole new way to shine. Established in 2014, the innovative exhibition has quickly become one of the region's most anticipated holiday spectacles.

Fitness & Recreation

For every cupcake in Georgetown, there's an opportunity to walk, jog or bike it off along some of the region's best trails. The C&O Canal Towpath and Capital Crescent Trails are popular for those heading west, and Rock Creek Park Trail travels north from the waterfront. Water enthusiasts can take to the Potomac River—a paddler's paradise for kayaking, canoeing or stand-up paddleboarding. The neighborhood is also home to over 20 fitness-related businesses, including athletic stores, yoga studios, and boathouses along the Potomac River. For the perfect combination of film and fitness, run up all 75 of the infamous Exorcist steps at 3600 Prospect St NW.

Picnic in the Park

Georgetown's commercial district is home to four national parks that comprise 11 acres of parkland. Pack a lunch and set up a picnic in one of the many neighborhood parks, including Georgetown Waterfront Park, with its 10 acres of green space along the Potomac River. Other prime picnic and recreation spots include Montrose Park, Old Stone House's courtyard, and Volta Park.

Waterfront Fun

All year round, Georgetown's picturesque waterfront is a center of neighborhood entertainment. Kids love running through the fountain at Georgetown Waterfront Park, and The Washington Harbour offers a calendar of events for people of all ages, including live music, a synchronized water fountain show, and an ice skating rink in the winter.
