At the end of this session you will:

- Know how to apply for insurance
- Understand key terminology
- Have an awareness of the different types of Insurance
- Understand the key influences on the cost of insurance.

01

Getting started

Introduction to Insurance

What is insurance?

Activity 1 - Answer the following questions

In pairs, define “Insurance” taking into account the following:

- What is it?
- Why do we have it?
- How does it work?

Introduction to Insurance

Insurance - is a means of protection from financial loss

The insurer agrees to compensate for the losses incurred on a specific event e.g. car accident or lost phone

Why do we have Insurance?

1. To help reduce financial risks e.g. the risk of paying for all the car repairs if you had a car accident
2. Provides a safety net for major life events e.g. not having to pay all the cost to rebuild your house should it burn down.
3. For financial protection against the legal costs of defending yourself should an incident occur
4. In some cases, insurance is a legal requirement e.g. third party car insurance

Activity 1 - Final question
What types of Insurance can you get?

Introduction to Insurance

Some types of insurance:

- House - buildings and contents
- Car - third party and fully comprehensive
- Gadget - includes loss and damage
- Travel - includes lost items, illness while away, cancellation
- Private medical insurance
- Pet insurance
- Household appliances - repair or replacement
- Life insurance
- Personal liability
- Dental insurance
- Permanent health insurance
- Almost anything else

02

Practicalities

How insurance works

How it works: part 1

Policy: A contract between you and the insurer setting out details of what losses are covered by your insurance. It will include any Excess, Exclusions, limit on claims etc.

Premiums, Excess and Exclusions

Activity 2

In pairs, define the following in relation to insurance:

- Premiums
- Excess
- Policy Exclusions

Consider how the three things interact.

Premiums, Excess and Exclusions

Premium - is the cost of buying insurance protection

Excess - The first portion of the loss that is not covered by the insurance. This will be agreed upfront and form part of your Policy (ie the agreement between you and the Insurance Company). It is always the first part of the loss. For example, if the Excess in your travel insurance is £100 and you lose a camera on holiday worth £80, the insurance company will not pay any amount. If the camera was worth £150, the insurance company would pay £50.

- How Excess works when an insurer is replacing a lost or damaged item:
- The insurer will usually only replace an item once the Excess has been paid to them.
- How Excess works when an insurer is paying for repairs to a damaged item:
- The insurer will typically pay the cost of the repairs less the Excess.

Premiums, Excess and Exclusions

Exclusions - What your Policy does not cover e.g.

- Property damage resulting from lack of maintenance
- Pre-existing medical conditions
- Demolition or construction required to bring your house up to required standards
- Earth movement: such as earthquakes, shockwaves, sinkholes, landslides and mudflows
- Water damage: such as floods, sewer back-ups and water that seeps through the foundation

How it works: part 2

Having insured your phone last year, you decide to renew your insurance policy on the renewal date

Insurance company sends a quote for the Premium for the next year's cover

Activity 3

What factors may influence the amount of the Premium?

No Claims Discount

1. Some types of policy offer a discount (“No Claims Discount”) off the premium on renewal of the policy if there have been no claims since the policy began
2. No Claims Discounts can build up over several years
3. For car insurance, some insurers provide discounts for up to eight years of claims-free driving
4. If you make a claim, the insurance company may reduce the No Claims Discount by a percentage but not remove it entirely
5. It is possible to pay a higher Premium to protect your “No Claims Discount” from being removed or reduced in the event of a claim.

How insurance is calculated

General overview

Underwriters “write” insurance. They do so by calculating the risk of a claim being made and how much to charge to compensate for taking on this risk

Generally, the larger the risk of a claim the larger the Premium for the insurance

They determine this by using statistical models which factor in risk factors such as:

1. Age
2. Location (usually only matters for home insurance)
3. Health
4. Claims history
5. Marital status (usually only matters for medical insurance)
6. Others

Example: The private healthcare insurance Premium is likely to be lower for a young man with no history of medical illness than for an old man with diabetes

Activity 4 - Which policy has the lower premium

How to choose an insurance policy

You choose which Policy is right for you by evaluating your circumstances including:

1. How much you are willing to pay either per month or all upfront (your Premium)
2. What you would like covered in your Policy (the larger the list the higher the Premium)
3. Amount of the Excess
4. Any restrictions on claims
5. Customer service

It is useful to compare multiple insurers to see which one offers the best price for the insurance cover you want. The cost of your premiums will generally be lower if you pay the entire amount upfront.

Some companies won't insure people under a certain age so it's important to consider this when looking.

Caution: Are the Policies you are comparing equivalent i.e. covering the same things? One Policy may include add-ons that you don't strictly want or need.

Cancellation

It is possible to cancel insurance policies but there may be a penalty for terminating the agreement before the end of its term (usually one year)

1. Main ways of cancelling: via telephone (talking to a representative) or email (customer services)
2. You can cancel at any time provided this is within the notice period (in your contract)
1. Companies have a Cooling-off period of at least 14 days from the date of setting up the Policy during which you can decide to withdraw from the Policy and have your Premium refunded without penalty.

Travel: Some providers will give you to the opportunity to buy insurance when you are at the airport. Policies are effective immediately but can still be cancelled during a cooling off period as long as you haven't travelled or made a claim yet.

Caveats

It's important that you provide the insurance company with all relevant information when setting up the Policy

If you do not, they may not pay out when you make a claim

Insurers share information with other insurance companies

It is not possible to claim insurance from more than one insurance company for the same loss

If you under-insure your house (for example) the amount you can claim if it burns down may only be a fraction of the cost of rebuilding it

It's important to read the small print to see what's not covered

Some policies may automatically renew so that you pay for insurance you no longer need

Jargon buster

Summary of key terms

Premium - Is the cost of buying insurance protection

Excess - The first portion of the loss that is not covered by the insurance. This will be agreed upfront and form part of your Policy (ie the agreement between you and the Insurance Company). It is always the first part of the loss. (See slide 8 for details)

Exclusions - What your Policy does not cover (see slide 9 for details)

Policy - A contract between you and the insurer setting out details of what losses are covered by your insurance, including any Excess, Exclusions, etc

Third party car insurance - Covers you against the costs incurred by another person as a result of an accident caused by you (including costs resulting from damage to their car, injuries etc)

Fully comprehensive car insurance - Includes third party car insurance and additionally provides cover for the cost of damage to your own car and your injuries

Under-insure - Under-estimating the value of the asset you are insuring (or the cost of replacing it) when taking out an insurance Policy. It is likely to result in a significantly limited payout when a claim is made

Cooling-off period - A period of time in which you can decide to withdraw from the Policy and have any payments you have made refunded in full. The insurance Policy is treated as never having taken effect

Telematics - Where technology is used to record how you drive (e.g. how fast, how far, the time of day, how you brake, etc) which will in turn affect your premiums
