

A.D.I. privacy policy

Welcome to A.D.I.! Once you use the products, software, services or websites of Xueyue Technology Co., Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the company) (hereinafter referred to as "A.D.I. Service")

, you agree to abide by the following terms and conditions and provide them to you from time to time The policies, guidelines and updated terms, including (but not limited to) program policies and legal statements (hereinafter collectively referred to as "terms").

1. Scope of application of privacy protection policy

Privacy protection policy content, including how the A.D.I. service handles personally identifiable information collected when you use the website service. The privacy protection policy does not apply to related linked websites other than the A.D.I. service, nor does it apply to persons who are not entrusted or involved in management by the Zuvio service.

2. Collection, processing and utilization of personal data

When you visit the A.D.I. service or use the functional services provided by the A.D.I. service, we will provide you with the necessary personal data, and process and use your personal data (including (Name, e-mail address, gender, organization, etc.); Without your written consent, the A.D.I. service will not use personal data for other purposes.

When you use the A.D.I. service, the server will automatically record the relevant behavior, including the IP address of your connected device, time of use, device used, browser used, browsing and click data records, etc., as us References for improving website services. This record is an internal application and will never be published.

In order to provide accurate services, we will conduct statistics and analysis of the collected data, and the statistical data or explanatory text of the analysis results will be presented. In addition to internal research, we will publish statistical data and explanatory text as necessary, but do not involve specific personal data .

3. Data protection

To protect your privacy and security, your A.D.I. service account information will be protected with a password. Please keep your password and any personal information properly, and do not provide any personal information, especially the password to anyone. The company will never ask for your password on unauthorized phone calls or emails. After you use the A.D.I. service, you must remember to log out. If you are sharing a computer with others or using a public computer, please close the browser window and clear the browsing information after use to prevent others from reading your personal data or letters.

4. Related Links to the Website

The webpage of the A.D.I. service provides network links to other websites. You can also click to enter other websites via the links provided by the A.D.I. service. However, the linked website does not apply to the privacy protection policy of the A.D.I. service. You must refer to the privacy protection policy of the linked website.

5. Policies for sharing personal data with third parties

Except for the reasons stated in this Privacy Policy and A.D.I. Terms of Service, the company will never sell, exchange, or rent any of your personal data to other groups or individuals. In the following circumstances, the company will provide your personal identification information to government agencies, other people or companies:

(i) In order to provide you with other services or preferential rights and interests, you need to share your services with third parties who provide the services or benefits. When providing information, the company will provide you with a full explanation during the event, and inform you before the information is provided that you can freely choose whether to accept this particular service or discount.

(ii) You need to share your information with other people or companies to provide the products or services you request.

(iii) Provide information to companies that have a contractual relationship with the company and thus provide services or products in order to provide you with products or services (if we do not notify you in advance, these companies have no right to use the personal data provided by us to provide products or other purposes than the service).

(iv) When a government agency requests the company to provide specific personal data in accordance with law, the company will consider the legal and formal procedures of the judicial unit, and may make necessary cooperation under the safety considerations of all users of the company.

(v) If we find that your behavior on the website violates this Privacy Policy, A.D.I. Terms of Service, or may damage the rights of the company, A.D.I. service users or related third parties, if the company has reason to believe the disclosure of this data is necessary to identify, contact or take legal action against the person. The company may disclose the user's personal data. In addition, based on good faith belief that disclosure is required by law, or used for management or other purposes to maintain and improve products and services, the company may also disclose or read the user's personal data.

(vi) In order to protect the personal privacy of users and to comply with the provisions of the Computer Processing Personal Data Protection Law, we cannot query the account information of other users for you. If you have access to other people's data in relation to legal issues, please tell the government unit that you have the authority to deal with, we will cooperate with the government unit investigation according to law and provide relevant information required by the government unit according to law to assist the investigation.

6. Use of Cookies

In order to provide you with the best service, the A.D.I. service will place and use our cookies on your computer. If you do not want to accept the writing of cookies, you can set the privacy level in the browser function you use. If it is high, you can refuse to write cookies, but it may lead to some functions of the website not performing properly.

7. Amendment to the Privacy Protection Policy

The A.D.I. service privacy protection policy will be revised at any time according to needs, and the revised terms will be posted on the website.